Young Litigators' seminar

HÄRTING Rechtsanwälte, Chausseestrasse 13, 10115 Berlin

Witness examination

The session will be based on a hypothetical case study, supported by materials, on witness examination.

Attendees are asked to read the materials (which are not too substantial) in advance and prepare their own examination of the witness. The session will start with the panel providing advice on 'do's and don'ts' and differences between the various ways of examining witnesses in different jurisdictions, before putting into practice its recommendations. One of the team members will play the witness and the participants will practice in groups and be given the opportunity to run their own examination and receive feedback.

For registration and for queries regarding this seminar please contact either Sandrine Giroud sgiroud@lalive.ch or Andrea Frischknecht andreas.frischknecht@chaffetzlindsey.com.

Places are limited and early registration is encouraged.

Platz der Republik 1, 11011 Berlin*

The welcome reception will be held at the Reichstag building, not only an iconic and historic location, but also one with spectacular views of Berlin's sights. Enjoy the start of the Conference with your fellow delegates in this beautiful and significant setting.

Due to tight security, the venue requires names and dates of birth of attendees. Please indicate your attendance when registering online or via hard copy form.

Collective redress – opt-in versus opt-out or is it asking the wrong question?

Advantages and disadvantages of opt-in and opt-out mechanisms in collective redress have been widely discussed and adapted over decades. This session will feature outstanding academics and practitioners discussing practical experiences with opt-in/opt-out and how they are connected to recent developments in the field of collective redress in the individual countries.

Geopolitics in court – part I

Sanctions and embargoes

Sanctions and embargoes are coercive measures which serve different socio-economic and public purposes. Today, sanctions have been and continue to be used to coerce states to conform to international commitments.

This session will focus primarily on the political and economic impact of sanctions and embargoes in commercial life. Sanctions impact contracts between private parties which often leads to disputes over the performance of contractual obligations. Is it simply a matter of contract drafting and definition of force majeure?

The session will discuss practices to best possibly minimise any contractual risks and challenges in and after court proceedings, if sanctions apply.

Geopolitics in court – part II

Human Rights

Human rights-based remedies have become increasingly important to international dispute resolution both in the context of investment arbitration and international litigation, including criminal law.

New standards and national legislation focussing on human rights, environment, labour and corruption risks have emerged as public scrutiny of judges and arbitrators has amplified.

This session will consider the impact of these new risks and the new litigation strategies that arise from them.

Moderator

Sandrine Giroud LALIVE, Geneva; Newsletter Editor, IBA Litigation Committee

Speakers

Sandra Cossart Director, Sherpa, Paris

Oliver Elgie Herbert Smith Freehills, London

Samantha Rowe Debevoise & Plimpton, London

Climate change litigation

Climate change used to be a topic dealt within or between governments, but as climate change related harms increase and the science of attributing extreme weather events evolves, more and more international corporations are finding themselves confronted with lawsuits concerning their role in contributing to climate change.

This multifaceted topic will be approached from the different perspectives of our panellists, including: an overview of international and United States related climate change litigation; new approaches of international non-governmental organisations to climate change; and a case regarding a German energy provider currently being sued for climate change-related damages in Peru.

Moderator

Thomas Lennarz CMS Hasche Sigle, Stuttgart

Speakers

Professor Cinnamon Carlarne Professor, Mortiz College of Law, The Ohio State University, Columbus, Ohio

Roda Verheyen Lawyers Günther, Hamburg

Daniel Wiseman Climate finance initiative, ClientEarth, London

1830 – 2230 Conference reception and dinner

The Great Orangery, Charlottenburg Castle

Spandauer Damm 22, 14059 Berlin

The Orangery is a magnificent and sophisticated venue that embraces the luxury of centuries past. This jewel of baroque architecture first housed a valuable citrus collection and soon thereafter the aristocracy discovered it to be the perfect venue for their festivities. The Orangery will provide a stunning background to our Conference dinner.

Speaker

Thomas Ramge Technology Correspondent, Brand Eins; Writer, The Economist, Berlin

Ticket price: €100 per person

Coaches will depart from the Ritz-Carlton Berlin at 1830 and will return following the dinner.

Disputes arising from artificial intelligence

Technology raises many issues when it comes to control, responsibility, transparency and liability. There is an increasing amount of case law on the underlying legal issues.

The panel will focus on the key challenges we are facing as machines become increasingly intelligent. Adequate distribution of responsibility is a particular concern.

In a chain of computer instructions when the computer also instructs itself, can a human being still be identified as liable or is it the machine, and possibly its owner, which has to shoulder liability? Additionally, artificial intelligence is progressively becoming an issue when it comes to evidence before a court of law.

How can you prove that algorithms work flawlessly on a non-discriminatory basis?

What is the right standard of evidence when there is a dispute about possible 'mistakes' that a machine and intricate technology have made?

Cryptocurrencies

Around the world, the emergence of cryptocurrencies has raised a host of novel legal issues. Some authors refer to them (and their underlying technology) as the 'internet of money', due to their highly disruptive effect. While some jurisdictions have taken steps to actively regulate these new technologies, others have adopted a wait-and-see approach, observing the development of the cryptocurrency ecosystem before making changes to the existing regulatory framework.

In a lively, interactive format, this session will explore both foundational concepts and cutting-edge issues in cryptocurrency regulation and litigation. Even the basic question of how to classify cryptocurrencies (whether as securities, commodities, digital or intangible assets or a sui generis category of their own) remains unresolved.

Our panellists will share their insights and experiences with the practical issues confronting businesses, courts and administrative agencies around the world in a wide range of contexts involving cryptocurrencies, including initial coin offerings, crypto-exchange platforms, taxation and fraud.

Unauthorised accommodation agents

It has been brought to our attention that there are multiple companies contacting past attendees, claiming to represent the IBA, offering 'assistance' with registration and hotel bookings.

They are operating by cold-calling and spamming companies whose names have appeared on previous List of Participants, Programmes and Sponsorship recognition. The only Accommodation Agent the IBA works with is Judy Lane ICS. Judy Lane ICS do not contact delegates on behalf of the IBA without delegates making initial contact. Please ignore any communication that does not come directly from the IBA or Judy Lane ICS.

International Bar Association

the global voice of the legal profession

The International Bar Association (IBA), established in 1947, is the world's leading organisation of international legal practitioners, bar associations, law firms and law societies.

The IBA influences the development of international law reform and shapes the future of the legal profession throughout the world. It has a membership of more than 80,000 individual lawyers and more than 190 bar associations and law societies spanning over 170 countries.

Inspired by the vision of the United Nations, the IBA was founded in the same spirit, just before the Universal Declaration of Human Rights was proclaimed in 1948.

The IBA covers all practice areas and professional interests, providing members with access to leading experts and up-to date information, enabling them to better represent their clients' interests.

Through its various committees, fora and task forces, the IBA facilitates the exchange of information and views among its members as to laws, practices and professional responsibilities relating to the practice of law around the globe.

IBA Litigation Committee

The Litigation Committee focuses on the legal, practical and procedural issues involved in conducting litigation. Differences and developments in individual jurisdictions are compared. The issues arising in international litigation receive particular attention, including jurisdiction, choice of law and the role of international judicial assistance in dispute resolution. Practitioners involved in larger scale or international litigation can debate topical issues and share their experiences of handling and solving the problems arising from such disputes. In particular, the Committee seeks to explore the differences of approach between the common law and civil law traditions and to encourage a dialogue between practitioners from these two systems.

Close links are maintained with various organisations, such as the American Bar Association Litigation Section, the British Institute of International and Comparative Law and the Australian Corporate Lawyers Association.

The Committee meets annually at the IBA Annual Conference and also has a specialist litigation Conference generally held in May or June each year, together with regular seminars and events organised by the Committee's local country chairs. The IBA Annual Conference also provides an occasion for the Young Litigators Forum to offer a forum for young lawyers to present papers and exchange ideas.

Committee members receive regular copies of the Committee's newsletter which provides details of the Committee's current activities, plus recent developments in the law worldwide. Members also receive the biannual journal of the IBA's Dispute Resolution Section, Dispute Resolution International. Full details of the Committee's Executive Committee and its regional and country chairs are published in the newsletter, and are available on this website. The Committee welcomes applications for membership from all lawyers with an interest in litigation.

Enyo Law is a leading disputes practice in London. We are a dynamic team of experienced and respected litigation and arbitration specialists, all of whom practised at leading international law firms.

We act in complex and high value litigation across a broad range of sectors and jurisdictions, and have a strong reputation for succeeding in some of the most prominent disputes before the High Court in London and in international arbitration proceedings, under the rules of all the major arbitration institutions as well as ad hoc cases and those brought under UNCITRAL rules.

We have extensive experience in securing and enforcing judgments and arbitral awards, and regularly liaise with regulators, advising on potential regulatory issues.

As well as receiving direct instruction from domestic and international clients, we are the natural choice for clients involved in matters that would present conflicts for major law firms arising from their transactional mandates for corporate clients.

In addition to a significant body of associates and litigation-support professionals, Enyo Law is one of the only firms in London to have an in-house Business Intelligence Unit, which provides critical intelligence-gathering services in support of the matters in which the firm is engaged.
