Commercial litigation arising from corporate scandals: lessons learnt from recent cases

During recent times, a wave of corporate scandals of enormous proportions have given rise to high-profile commercial litigation cases. In this session, the panel will examine lessons to be learnt from these cases. They will also discuss effective strategies to navigate these conflicts, which will include: practical aspects of retrieving cross-border assets; the need to be able to work with

Third party funding in litigation: benefits and concerns

Third party funding of disputes is now a common feature in many developed jurisdictions, to such a degree that it has emerged as a specialised industry. While many jurisdictions have gotten past initial debates about whether financing a lawsuit is permissible, third-party funding still raises many practical and procedural issues when it comes to confidentiality, transparency, costs and ethical constraints. This session will bring together a panel of leading litigation lawyers and third-party funders with the aim of discussing key topics, including:

- Clients' vision of funding and factors that should be considered when selecting a funder
- How funders assess and value disputes
- Whether third-party funding agreements should be disclosed/disclosable
- How third-party litigation funding is currently regulated around the world
- Disagreements between funders and clients regarding settlement or key procedural decisions
- Funding arrangements between lawyers and funders

Securities litigation: a live investigation into comparative approaches

Securities litigation is arguably the most economically significant form of litigation worldwide. Legal concepts and techniques developed in the United States have been adapted and are now being used in Europe and elsewhere. In a lively and interactive format, counsel from multiple jurisdictions will look at the growth of securities litigation from the perspective of both claimants' and defendants' lawyers, and discuss:

- What is 'securities litigation'?
- The background of securities litigation: corporate governance, and securities regulation and enforcement
- Market/price disrupting events
- Building a claimant 'class'
- Funding
- Procedural tools
- The future of securities litigation: global growth?

Enforcing judgments around the world: threats and opportunities

Prevailing on the merits of a dispute is only half the battle, then there is judgment enforcement. If the judgment debtor's assets are in a different jurisdiction from the jurisdiction where the judgment was obtained, judgment enforcement is particularly tricky. This panel of dispute resolution lawyers, from a variety of countries, will discuss and answer:

- To what extent will one jurisdiction recognise the judgments of another?
- If you can influence the drafting of your judgment, what should you do to make it enforceable in other commercial countries?
- Can assets of the judgment debtor be attached while you are waiting for recognition of your foreign judgment?

This panel will help prepare you to be in the best position to enforce your judgment cross-border, and will also discuss the status of recent relevant Hague Conventions.

1100–1225

Assessing damages in complex matters: interactions between lawyers and quantum experts

In making their legal findings and deriving their judgments on damages, judges frequently rely on parties' presentations of conclusions reached by quantum experts. While the significance of damages evidence reports is undisputed nowadays, the interplay between counsel and quantum experts during the preparation and submission of such evidence raises serious questions that remain unresolved. This concluding session will address the following:

- Should lawyers intervene in the methods experts use to quantify damages in light of the specific facts of the dispute?
- Is there a need for more transparency in the role of counsel in the preparation of damages reports and experts' witness statements?
- What are the limits of an instruction letter?
- What is the role of counsel in providing quantum experts with relevant documents from which experts form their opinion?

These and other queries will be discussed, with the aim of offering tips that may help lawyers enhance their role in expert evidence preparation.

International Bar Association

the global voice of the legal profession

The International Bar Association (IBA), established in 1947, is the world's leading organisation of international legal practitioners, bar associations, law firms and law societies.

The IBA influences the development of international law reform and shapes the future of the legal profession throughout the world. It has a membership of more than 80,000 individual lawyers and more than 190 bar associations and law societies spanning over 170 countries.

Inspired by the vision of the United Nations, the IBA was founded in the same spirit, just before the Universal Declaration of Human Rights was proclaimed in 1948.

The IBA covers all practice areas and professional interests, providing members with access to leading experts and up-to-date information, enabling them to better represent their clients' interests.

Through its various committees, fora and task forces, the IBA facilitates the exchange of information and views among its members as to laws, practices and professional responsibilities relating to the practice of law around the globe.

IBA Litigation Committee overview

The IBA Litigation Committee focuses on the legal, practical and procedural issues involved in conducting litigation. Differences and developments in individual jurisdictions are compared. The issues arising in international litigation receive particular attention, including issues such as jurisdiction, choice of law, and the role of international judicial assistance in dispute resolution. Practitioners involved in larger scale or international litigation can debate topical issues and share their experiences of handling and solving the problems arising from such disputes. In particular, the committee seeks to explore the differences of approach between the common law and civil law traditions, and to encourage a dialogue between practitioners from these two systems.

IBA Latin American Regional Forum overview

The IBA Latin American Regional Forum covers all countries in Latin America as well as Mexico, Puerto Rico and Spanish-speaking areas of the Caribbean. The Forum provides a focus for all activities in the region. The group organises sessions at IBA conferences and in particular has been instrumental in ensuring that a Latin American perspective is addressed during relevant special sessions. The IBA Latin American Regional Forum is closely affiliated with the IBA North American Forum as the regions are geographically proximate and share many issues.
